diastereoisomeric units

in a polymer

Two non-superposable configurational units that correspond to the same constitutional unit are considered to be diastereomeric if they are not mirror images.

Source:
Purple Book, p. 27